PRACTICAL INFO GUIDE

ÉCLAT, officially recognised as a National Centre for Street Arts, was founded in 1988 to organise the (colossal) Festival International de Théâtre de Rue d'Aurillac, first held in 1986. Its motto? To bring together trends, aesthetics, practices and disciplines; to embrace wide diversity — in the form of performances and the origin of artists alike — and to support artistic creation with a dedicated production venue: Le Parapluie. Throughout the year, the Centre hosts numerous artist residencies and develops cultural initiatives and participatory projects, making ÉCLAT a vital, independent force in the region.

Set deliberately in a rural area, the Aurillac Festival has grown to become one of France's leading live performance events, a reference in Europe and beyond in the field of street theatre.

The official programme features 19 curated companies. Alongside them, more than 600 independent companies gather, turning the Aurillac Festival into an extraordinary hub for artistic creation, exploration, and presentation.

Professional meetings, conferences, and public discussions further enrich this festival of creativity.
